L. Roche, Vice Chair	L. Gejda
C. McCubbin, Secretary	R. Bienkowski
R. Gaines	8 Staff
W. Hart	approx. 100 Public
K. Alexander	2 Press
J. Vouros

Mrs. Leidlein called the meeting to order at 7:42 p.m.

Item 2 – Public Participation

First Selectman Pat Llodra, spoke about the N.I.C.E. program. Newtown's commitment to partnership with the Hanban Network demonstrates to our students and community that the world has changed and we support opportunities for the program to evolve and be consistent with our values. She is going on the spring visit to China and hopes to discuss economic development and environmental concerns. She thanked the Board for their efforts with this program.

Marina Leonart Calvo, high school student, read a letter from Samantha Kent, a former Newtown High School student who was one of the nine students who originally were involved in the N.I.C.E. program. She feels being part of this program has helped her be successful.

Sandra Rasmussen, 59 Scudder Road, is a new member of the N.I.C.E parent organization which has launched a project to have an outreach package for the public.

Desiree Galassi, 151 Huntingtown Road, was part of strategic planning group and is now president of the N.I.C.E. PTO. They have an informational website for the community which is also linked to the district website. They are also working to incorporate themselves so they can receive scholarship monies.

Mr. Gaines and Mr. Alexander joined the meeting at 8:00 p.m.

Nicole Davis, a high school student, said her family has been involved in this program for three years hosting students. This has been a most memorable high school experience and impacts the community in a positive way.

Luke Sherin, high school student, read a letter and poem written by a student who stayed with his family.

Po Murray, 38 Charter Ridge Drive, asked the Board to do more work on the strategic plan and student achievement. The N.I.C.E. program deserves the Board and community support to be integrated in the action plan. She is the vice chair of the program and would like to see Board of Education funding in the future.

Mrs. Leidlein said there are on-going sub committees working on the strategic plan that will give us the structure to guide us. She spoke about the loss of Norm McConnell and asked for a moment of silence. He was a wonderful man and teacher and will be missed by faculty and students.

Dr. Robinson said Mr. McConnell started in 1998 as a technology specialist working throughout the district and shared her experience at his memorial service on Saturday.

Item 1 – Consent Agenda

MOTION: Mrs. Roche moved to approve the consent agenda which included the minutes of March 6, 2012, the resignation for retirement of Dee Cupole, head nurse at Newtown High School, spring volunteer coach for softball Tara Kalberer, and the donation of $750 from Newtown Babe Ruth to the Newtown High School baseball team. Mr. Alexander seconded. Vote: 5 ayes. Mr. McCubbin and Mr. Vouros abstained.

Item 4 – Old Business

N.I.C.E. Program Presentation:

Jason Hiruo spoke about the Newtown International Center for Education (N.I.C.E.) Program. The presentation focused on the major components of the program which contribute to the success of the program, the connection between N.I.C.E. and the education standards at the district, state and national level, the program challenges, and the recommendations to the Board of Education that can assist us to help move the program forward (see attachment). Mr. Hiruo thanked the Board for recognizing the program and that it is our responsibility to prepare our children for their world. His report spoke about the five major components of N.I.C.E. which are student life, district relationships, school and community cultural learning events, resources, support and professional development, and outreach and support.

Students Ben Galassi and Kylie Gallagher spoke about the Model UN Club where students address current world issues.

Tess Murray and Kelsey McEvoy spoke about their experiences hosting a Chinese student.

Students Eric Song and Annie Beier shared their experiences attending the international student forum in Kyoto, Japan.

Mr. Hiruo stated that we have not used any district funds for these trips. The teachers pay to go and they also teach there. We hope to raise money for scholarships for students and teachers.

Mr. Vouros asked how he was able to get everything done and suggested finding someone in the community to help.

Mr. Hiruo stated that students, educators and parents all collectively work with the program and devote their time seven days a week.

Mr. Vouros was concerned about substitute teacher costs during the trips.

Mr. Hiruo budgeted enough money to cover that expenditure for the district. The majority of the trips are over April break. With the Japan partnership we will go when school is out.

Mrs. Roche was pleased he was addressing students who could not afford to go.

Mr. Hiruo is working with a travel agency to diminish costs. The more we bring, the lower the cost.

Mrs. Roche asked the criteria for student selection into the program.

Mr. Hiruo said they have to be strong academically and are students that best represent the school and community. They apply and have an interview process. When we go abroad we become a family unit.

Mrs. Roche asked for the projected costs for next year.

Mr. Hiruo said we always get our $11,500 grant from the Confucious Classroom. We also have an annual donation from a Newtown resident of $6,000 per year. We are trying to cut back on costs for gifts, which is cultural and what we do here for the visitors.

Mr. Hart feels this program should be a core mission of this district to have excellence in education. He mentioned the possibility of bringing world language to pre-K through grade 12 students.

Mr. Hiruo said we are developing the capacity to become leaders for the educators. Common core standards are being tied into global education.

Mr. McCubbin asked if there were any thoughts to putting the costs out for the public and giving them an opportunity to ask questions.

Mr. Hiruo said we have a FAQ section on our website. His concern is if we put the costs on line it will impact our relationships with these countries. We try to avoid the specifics of costs. Culturally it can create problems. We have to protect the integrity of the program.

Mr. Cody thought it might be a line item in the budget for the public to understand.

Mr. Hiruo feels we should be as self-sufficient as possible.

Mr. Vouros addressed having a foreign language in each elementary school.

Mr. Hiruo said Sandy Hook School has a morning Mandarin project before school starts which is on a volunteer basis. The intent is there to develop the program throughout the district.

There is also an intern at Hawley School who is fluent in Japanese and is conducting workshops open to all ages.

Mrs. Roche feels we should be able to see where this N.I.C.E. money is recorded in our budget.

Mr. Bienkowski said funding goes through the high school student activities account. They are private grants.

Mrs. Roche said it would be helpful to be done under one line item so the Board can follow it. The Reed scheduling committee is also looking at bringing in other programs.

Mr. Hiruo said the N.I.C.E. program has influenced a lot of people. There is no connection between N.I.C.E. and music and art at Reed.

Mr. Alexander said the best way to have a line item for N.I.C.E. is to give them money.

Mrs. Leidlein asked if this was going to be a program only at the high school or would it become something where there is an application process with a full-time commitment to global studies. Where is this program going?

Dr. Robinson said the global studies in Norwalk get state funding as a magnet school and draw from surrounding communities. We are going to continue to enrich our program with no ambition of a magnet school. This is a rich program that has grown rapidly. We want to be known as a global studies school.

Mrs. Roche asked if it would ever get so big that you would need money from the district. Mr. Hiruo said as we add more students there may be some financial support needed. Mrs. Leidlein asked if the district provides funding would the ability to get grants diminish. Mr. Hiruo said the grants won't be impacted.

Item 5 – New Business

Strategic Plan Character Tree Rollup Development:

Judy Blanchard and Tony Salvatore presented the character tree rollup to the Board. It was designed by a student and the community was asked for their input. She and Dr. Salvatore asked the Board of Education and other boards to put these up at their meetings. They also asked that the posters be put up in each classroom.

Dr. Salvatore said this is the centerpiece of the safe school climate policy. At the community level we hope this becomes the first thing reviewed at each public meeting made visible to students and the community.

Mrs. Blanchard said the committee is listing where this needs to be presented and explained such as Parks and Rec. for coaches, the Rotary and Lions clubs, and the clergy association.

Mrs. Roche mentioned that it didn't say it was developed by the Newtown Schools. Mrs. Blanchard agreed there should be some identification. Dr. Salvatore said we didn't want to limit it as just a school piece.

Item 3 - Reports

Financial Report:

Motion: Mr. Hart moved to approve the financial report and transfers for the month ending February 29, 2012. Mr. Gaines seconded.

Mr. Bienkowski went over the financial report. The overall projected balance has declined by $44,000. We have a positive balance but the needs for special education are unanticipated. He recommended two sets of transfers.

Vote: 7 ayes

Mrs. Leidlein received a communication today from the Town Clerk's office with a petition for the Board to hold a public hearing.

Correspondence:

Mr. McCubbin said the Board received correspondence from Eliza Pietron regarding daily and hourly rates for buses transporting students to Milford, Connecticut, Alisa Farley with new ideas for the Newtown Budget Guide, Dave and Tracey Fiore with appreciation for the coffee with the Board and concerns about police searches on school campus, Warren Hoppmeier regarding Southbury holding their budget to a zero increase for two years, and Po Murray regarding the transportation cost for the ice hockey team.

Chair Report:

Mrs. Leidlein attended the Board of Finance meeting with their recommendation of reducing the requested increase by $700,000. She attended the high school play and commended Jane Matson and the cast and crew. She also attended the girls basketball championship game and asked to invite them to a future Board meeting to recognize them for their accomplishments along with their coaches. The Legislative Council education subcommittee meeting will be held tomorrow night.

Superintendent's Report:

Dr. Robinson said that Linda Gejda is part of the NEASC team visiting the Meriden school system which began on Sunday. We have a team going to Massachusetts for training on the NEASC and the point person at the high school will be Jaime Rivera. We received a letter from the State with the date for teacher negotiations of July 19. It is determined by when we hold our referendum. Because it starts in July we have to discuss who from the Board will be in the negotiations.

Mrs. Leidlein said currently it's Mr. Hart, she and Mrs. Roche. We need three or four. Dr. Robinson said we need an extra person for the summer.

A middle school team in the future design competition won and will be going to the national competition in Washington, D.C. She congratulated the high school girl's basketball team and coaches for winning the championship.

Strategic Planning Team #3 Teaching and Learning is making progress toward a plan that is updated and guides the work to fulfill this strategy. The technology team is just getting started and we expect the entire team will meet this fall.

The Governor was at Bethel High School last week where he heard concerns of people regarding the upcoming changes in tenure, certification and teacher evaluation.

State Bill 24 is expected to be reported on March 26. We started on our teacher evaluation plan a year ago.

Calendar Emergency Closing Day Explanation:

MOTION: Mrs. Roche moved that the Board of Education approve the emergency closing days explanation for the 2012-2013 school calendar. Mr. Gaines seconded. Mrs. Leidlein read the suggested wording.

Mr. Alexander amended the motion to read as follows:

The calendar builds-in five emergency closings, with the last day of school projected as June 18th. Unused closings will be deducted from this date. Extra closings will be added on June 19, 20, 21 with additional days taken from the end of April break (4/19, 4/18, etc.).

Mr. McCubbin seconded

Vote on amendment: 7 ayes

Vote on motion: 7 ayes

Item 5 – New Business (continued)

Policy 4-607.2, 4-607.3, 7-102, 7-104, 7-104.1 and 3-202 were listed for first read.

The transfer policy was discussed.

Mrs. Leidlein said there have been some occurrences that the policy sub committee wanted to review to have a better understanding of where money was being spent.

Dr. Robinson said if the changes to the policy were made the Board would have to approve every EA prior to implementing.

Mr. Hart asked how quickly these positions would have to be approved.

Dr. Robinson said if we needed an EA immediately we couldn't have them start till after Board approval. Normally it would only take two days to have someone start.

Mr. Hart asked how many transfers would be brought to the Board each year.

Mr. Bienkowski said it would be a significant number.

Mrs. Roche said the auditor reviewed this.

Mr. Bienkowski stated that all transfers within major object codes come to the Board now and would be listed in the financial report.

Mrs. Leidlein said most districts require transfers brought to the Board.

Mr. Bienkowski feels our system is efficient. He is concerned that there is suspicion something is not being done properly.

Mrs. Leidlein said they just want to see where the money has been moved. All transfers are approved on the Town side.

Mr. Bienkowski said the Town has a simple account structure.

Mr. Hart said we need very clear definition on where you want to see it. The detailed report is huge. We have people in town who believe that we should have a rock bottom budget. The policy has to state what Mr. Bienkowski has to report.

Mr. Gaines asked the cost for the auditor to review the policy.

Mrs. Leidlein said there was no charge.

Mr. Gaines said it was necessary to identify what we are talking about. He doesn't believe the new line in the policy adds to the efficiency of running the department.

Mr. Bienkowski said we added an additional column in the budget to show the difference from what was approved and where we were. He would prefer to work with the processes we use today and expand on them.

Superintendent's Evaluation:

Mrs. Leidlein said they stated they would evaluate the Superintendent in March so she would like to do that at the next meeting or the one after that. We would use the tool in the policy.

Dr. Robinson said the statute states that we have to mutually agree on the tool. In the fall of 2007 Tom Jokubaitis brought the newly revised evaluation. The Board and she agreed on that instrument and she would not like to change. The evaluation should be done the end of the year.

Mrs. Leidlein said it would be used to look at any salary changes and be based on the progress so far. CAFE recommends a mid-year evaluation. It is essential to have an evaluation now.

Dr. Robinson feels to do it in April, May and part of June may not be a reasonable amount of time.

Mrs. Leidlein stated the Board would look at that.

Mrs. Roche said we are behind because of the budget meetings.

Mr. Hart stated that this wasn't a Board decision.

Mrs. Leidlein said the current Board has nothing to base their evaluation on.

Dr. Robinson said it is done in executive session.

Mr. Hart said nothing in executive session from last August applies to anything this year.

Mrs. Leidlein suggested using the CAFE/CAPSS model.

Mrs. Roche made a motion that the Board uses the current policy to review and evaluate the Superintendent.

Mr. Hart said the law states the evaluation document is by mutual agreement.

Mr. Gaines said it was difficult using the CAFE policy when there's a change in the Board mid-year. It's not appropriate to have a mid-year evaluation in an election year. New members can't get a feel for the job the Superintendent has been doing. It's also not appropriate for an evaluation two months before the end of the year.

Mrs. Roche said there's no written evaluation so it's very frustrating with no comparison to make.

Mrs. Leidlein said goals are based on the previous evaluation.

Mr. Vouros said he, Mrs. Roche and Mr. McCubbin could only evaluate Dr. Robinson from December 6.

Mrs. Leidlein said to postpone it until June is not in the best interest of the community.

Mr. Hart said everyone else's evaluation is protected and confidential. Everything for Dr. Robinson is subject to FOIA.

Mr. Alexander didn't think the written portion has anything to do with the evaluation procedure at this point.

Mrs. Leidlein said if the statute says we have to agree upon the tool and Dr. Robinson has no problem with using that we can use the one in place. The CAFE/CAPSS tool was used in the last two evaluations.

Mrs. Roche suggested checking with the Board attorney.

This would be added to the next agenda.

Mrs. Roche asked for the policy and procedures.

MOTION: Mr. Gaines moved that the Board of Education authorize the Superintendent to send written notification to the teachers on the 2012 non-renewal list. Mr. Hart seconded. Vote: 7 ayes

Dr. Robinson said they have to be notified by May 1. It used to be April 1.
Vote: 7 ayes

Item 6 – Public Participation - none

MOTION: Mr. Alexander moved to adjourn. Mr. Gaines seconded. Vote: 7 ayes

Item 7 - Adjournment

The meeting adjourned at 12:48 a.m.

Respectfully submitted:

The Five (5) Major Components of NICE

1. Student Life

21st Century students require opportunities to learn about themselves and their world around them in a global context. NICE provides after-school activities, sponsors support to clubs and student organizations, brings in guest speakers, facilitates field trips, develops leadership and participatory experiences for students with multiple interests and learning styles; and initiates developmental opportunities for students to build their own capacity as global citizens.

2. District Relationships

In four years, NICE has reached the community, through the State of Connecticut, and across the oceans to impact and collaborate with students and educators from around the world. There are no other programs in Connecticut like NICE that have developed the network of educational support and professional connections like the NICE program. This network of professional cooperation, collegial support, and friendships represent the district at an international level, and ultimately representing our township and how we prepare our students for their world.

3. School and Community: Cultural Learning Events

As educators, it is our responsibility to educate more than just our students as we are collectively responsible for the education and experiences of our students. In preparing and providing our students with learning experiences, we feel it is necessary to provide these same learning opportunities to our community in the 21st Century. Providing learning opportunities for our adults develops not only program awareness and international appreciation of cultures, but develops global citizens of character.

4. Resources, Support, and Professional Development

As the need and interest for global education expands, it is necessary to support educators to inform and prepare them with the capacity to feel knowledgeable and confident in their craft of teaching students at all levels and modalities. NICE works to offer learning and teaching experiences for any Newtown educator interested in furthering their skills and expertise. This support stretches beyond Newtown educators as we collaborate with aspiring programs, State Department requests, inquiring international programs, and individual educators that look to NICE as CT education experts in international program development and sustainability.

5. Outreach and Support

Communication – Funding – Inclusion - Expansion. These are elements that are necessary to move the program forward on a local and global scale. To obtain these elements, it is necessary to seek support while NICE is the foundation of support. With necessary funding and elevated communication to the community, colleagues, partners, and friends, NICE can stimulate greater sustainability and preparation for our students and educators. We are fortunate to have extraordinary levels of support from our parents and community through the NICE PCO (Parent-Community Organization) that is drawing upon their own professional experiences and career expertise to build a foundational framework of support for the students, educators, and families associated with NICE.

AFS & Intercultural Learning

AFS Educational Goals

Supportive Learning Approach Research Educational Leaders AFS Intercultural Link

As the world becomes increasingly interconnected, we are challenged more than ever before to expand our knowledge and attitudes in order to successfully participate in the emerging global community.

The Essence of AFS

AFS is an educational organization dedicated to providing enriched learning experiences that promote intercultural awareness, tolerance and communication. By providing immersive learning experiences in new environments combined with regular reflection and coaching opportunities, AFS helps participants build solid foundations for the future—whether in their academic careers, entry into the workforce or simply as responsible and tolerant members of the larger community.

The programs offered by AFS are focused on increasing intercultural competence: the ability to engage effectively and appropriately within different cultural settings, whether encountered locally or in an international setting. Using experiential and structured learning methods, both participants and host families have the chance to broaden their perspectives and learn from each other, developing their communication skills in the process. The result effect is solid preparation to live, work and lead in a diverse global society.

Impact of AFS Programs

By helping individuals develop more effective communication skills and improve their understanding of the unfamiliar, AFS gives its participants, host families and connected audiences better insights into the perspectives of people from other cultures. The resulting empathy prepares participants to better cope with ambiguity and difference in future situations.

Career & Academic Choices

Research has shown that AFS alumni have more diversity in their professional and social networks. They are also significantly more likely than their peers to have careers that involve working extensively with other cultures, and almost 50% more likely to live and work abroad for an extended period. Additionally, they often study abroad again at the university level.

Language Skills

The ability to speak and use a foreign language provides countless advantages in the workforce as well as in everyday life. The type of immersive experience provided by AFS exchange programs is one of the most effective ways to learn another language. Over 70% of AFS Participants achieved fluency in another language after the completion of a year studying abroad and AFS alumni are likely to have fluency in more foreign languages than their peers.

Intercultural Sensitivity

People who take part in AFS exchange programs show increased intercultural development and more global awareness. This is assessed using the Developmental Model of Intercultural Sensitivity (DMIS), a scale that identifies varying worldviews through which people perceive

The Five (5) Components of NICE

In four years, NICE has reached the community, through the State of Connecticut, and across the oceans to impact and collaborate with students and educators from around the world. We have yet to find a program in Connecticut like NICE that has developed the network of educational support and professional connections like the NICE program. This network of professional cooperation, collegial support, and friendships represent the district at an international level, and ultimately representing our township as we prepare our students for their world.

II. District Relations: (Alphabetical)

1. ASIA SOCIETY: New York City, NY Headquarters
2. CAS, Connecticut Association of Schools;
3. College Board
4. Confucius Classrooms Network (Top 100 U.S. School Programs)
5. CTDOE, Connecticut Department of Education;
6. HANBAN (The Confucius Institute is overseen by the Office of Chinese Language Council International [Hanban], a non-profit educational organization affiliated with the Ministry of Education in Beijing)
7. JAPAN SOCIETY: New York City, NY Headquarters
8. Kyoto, Japan: Ritsumeikan Schools
9. Liaocheng, China: Liaocheng Schools
10. Paris, France: Alain School
11. Peking University: Beijing, China

The NICE program stretches far beyond the limits of Newtown and into the world of education and business throughout the globe. NICE connects to businesses, corporations, institutions, and individuals that find great value in global education and citizenry. Therefore, we consider these connections to be ongoing as we represent our program in district relations to pursue funding. District relations are ever-present and ongoing as we bring the world to Newtown and simultaneously bring Newtown to the world.

To Whom It May Concern:

Over the last three years, Asia Society has built a national network of 100 exemplary Chinese language programs that includes schools in almost 30 states that have demonstrated a strong commitment to expanding students' capacity to successfully engage the world beyond their borders. The Asia Society Confucius Classrooms Network is advised by a forty-member International Expert Advisory Committee of leaders in world languages and international education, and applications to join the network are reviewed for evidence of the vision and capacity to make the school's Chinese language program a core part of a larger global education strategy. Admission to the Network is extremely competitive, and Asia Society received almost 300 applications to become one of its 100 members.

Among the 100 members of this national network, it would be no exaggeration to say that Newtown High School stands out for the incredible commitment it has made to building a robust and sustainable partnership with a school in China. Newtown is unique in having leveraged a school-to-school partnership to create a district-wide International Center for Education. Under the visionary leadership of Jason Hiruo, the Center exemplifies a strong commitment to the value of international partnership and exchange, and represents a new approach to education that puts the experiences of teachers and students at the forefront.

By the time Newtown's students enter the workforce, for the first time in nearly a century and a half, the US will have the second largest economy in the world, with China taking its place as the largest; by the same measure, the UK will likely be replaced by Indonesia, and Germany by India. On a similar order of magnitude, transformation in other sectors such as innovation, culture and academia are taking place at lightning speed. Asia Society is working hard with partners like Newtown High School and the Newtown International Center for Education to help our education system expand its capacity to offer American students the world class education they deserve.

As a global non-profit organization that has worked since 1956 to promote mutual understanding and strengthen partnerships among the peoples, leaders and institutions of Asia and the United States, Asia Society is proud to recognize Newtown's exemplary achievement in making international exchange a core component of its Chinese language and culture program, and proud to be working with Newtown through the activities of the Asia Society Confucius Classrooms Network. In addition to financial support to further develop the schools' Chinese language program, Asia Society also provides opportunities for professional development and sharing through regular events such as the Confucius Classrooms Teachers Institute, Teachers and Leaders Summit in China, and the National Chinese Language Conference.

Sincerely yours,

Chris Livaccari

To Whom it May Concern:

Japan Society of New York has worked with Newtown High School since Spring 2011. Beginning in fall 2011, Newtown High School became one of only two schools in the tri-state area to be named as part of the Japan Society Education Program School Partner Alliance, a designation most schools find both prestigious and beneficial. The high quality of the Newtown International Center for Education (NICE), and the desire of NICE leadership to have their work with us benefit the entire school district, was essential in our decision to work extensively and allocate significant financial and human resources to working with the Newtown School District.

Selected key areas of collaboration with the Newtown School District include:

1. Extensive participation in a safe, online, closed social network connecting classrooms in the USA and Japan (as well as Pakistan) to communicate with peers abroad on curriculum relevant topics. In future years, leading experts in various fields of the arts, sciences, government, and business, in both the United States and Japan, will participate in online conversations with students. Newtown High School students, due to our close association with NICE, will have priority in participating in these discussions.
2. Brought two faculty members of Newtown High School to Japan to participate in the three week educator's study tour to Japan. The tour included numerous experiences not available to most visitors, including meeting with a person who survived the atomic bombing of Hiroshima but lost his son in 9/11, visiting schools (PreK-12) in two different geographic locations, participating in a rural and suburban Japan, and viewing important historical sites under the guidance of tour leader with a Ph.D. in Japanese history. The tour also allowed for specific exchanges of teaching ideas with the other participating educators. There is strong potential for additional educators for Newtown High School and Newtown Middle School to participate in future tours.
3. One faculty member participated in a closed door, by invitation only international conference of teachers in Kyoto, Japan, to design projects to utilize computers to develop meaningful communication between American, Japanese, and Pakistani teens. Only ten teachers from throughout the United States were allowed to participate. Japanese schools represented included many of the most prestigious schools in Japan including Waseda High School and Keio Girls Senior High School.

4. Aided Newtown High School in working towards establishing a sister school relationship with Ritsumeikan Uji Junior Senior High School, one of the highest quality independent schools in Japan. As an Alliance Partner of Japan Society, we will provide support as this relationship develops that we cannot provide to other school districts seeking our aid.
5. Support for curriculum planning as needed, as well as giving students special access to Japan Society events, including opportunities to meet with world renowned artists from Japan.

As our relationship further develops, Japan Society will be able to offer additional supports, via the NICE program, to the Newtown School District. Over the next twelve to eighteen months, we have a particular focus on developing curricular materials for elementary schools as well as introducing opportunities for elementary school classes in the United States to connect with elementary classes in Japan. If there is interest on the part of the Newtown School District, we would also look forward, working through the NICE program, to work with elementary schools in the district.

Newtown High School is the first school in Connecticut with which we have formed an alliance, which we believe has benefitted the students of Newtown High School. The existence of the NICE program, and quality of the educators involved, was essential in our decision to work extensively with Newtown High School. We are confident that the considerable resources we have invested in the Newtown School district, via the NICE program, will pay dividends in the development of sustainable programs for Newtown students.

Sincerely,

Robert A. Fish, Ph.D.

Director of Education

The Five (5) Components of NICE

As educators, it is our responsibility to educate more than just our students as we are all collectively responsible for the education and experiences of our students. In preparing and providing our students with learning experiences, we feel it is necessary to provide these same learning opportunities to our community in the 21st Century. Providing learning opportunities for our adults develops not only program awareness and international appreciation of cultures, but develops global citizens of character.

The Five (5) Components of NICE

As the need and interest for global education expands, it is necessary to support educators to inform and prepare them with the capacity to feel knowledgeable and confident in their craft of teaching students at all levels and modalities. NICE works to offer learning and teaching experiences for any Newtown educator interested in furthering their skills and expertise. This support stretches beyond Newtown educators as we collaborate with aspiring programs, State Department requests, inquiring international programs, and individual educators that look to NICE as CT education experts in international program development and sustainability.

EXAMPLE OF NICE DISTRICT RESOURCE: Informational Cultural Awareness

Points of Awareness: The World of Education

Interacting with International Students

International students can differ culturally from each other within your classroom

1. Speak in a way that is appropriate to the student's level of competence in English. New students, especially those on an ESL program, may have problems understanding rapid conversational English and will need you to speak slowly and very clearly. Don't shout but pronounce words clearly and avoid slang expressions. To speak in the same slow way to a student whose English is fluent may be perceived as an insult. However, even if students are fluent, they may not be familiar with slang, acronyms, etc. Pay attention to signs that the student may not be understanding what you are saying. Ask them to explain to you what you have said. If you simply ask, "do you understand?" they are likely to answer "yes" to avoid embarrassment.
2. In some countries, the family name is given first and then the personal name so it is less confusing if you ask a student for their "family" name than for their second name.
3. Americans place great importance on being independent and self-reliant and expect people to show initiative. In much of the world, young people are raised to be part of a group and expect that those in a superior position will take the initiative and tell them what courses to take, what to write a paper on, etc. Americans may regard a person who can't seem to make their own decisions as weak. The international student may view advisors and professors as uncaring if they are told they have to do things on their own.
4. Americans generally expect that a person who needs help will ask for it but in many countries, people expect that others will be sensitive and will offer help.
5. Talking to strangers about problems is not common in many countries and students may find it difficult to talk about their emotions to someone who is not a friend or family member.
6. People in some countries (parts of Western Europe) speak more directly than Americans from the upper Midwest and people in other countries (much of Asia) speak much less directly.
7. Americans may expect that a person who disagrees will say no and make their objection clear although even Americans often find it difficult. Concern for the other person's face makes it very difficult for people from some countries to say no, especially if they are dealing with a superior.
8. The American emphasis on punctuality and scheduling, efficiency and hard work is regarded as obsessive by people in many other countries. It seems that all Americans think about is work and that they don't know how to enjoy life.
9. Americans regard someone who doesn't maintain eye contact as lacking in self-confidence, uninterested or suspicious. Direct eye contact is regarded as threatening - politeness calls for only brief eye contact.
10. Americans often think that one should present a strong self-image but the same behavior may be regarded as arrogant in other countries where one is expected to be humble.
11. Americans expect bureaucracy to work. In many countries, bureaucracy must be manipulated by calling upon personal connections or bribes. Students raised in such societies may seem manipulative to Americans and may cause resentment if they try to go over the head of someone lower in the hierarchy to make connections.
12. Without an audience, ask how to pronounce the international student's name and make a note of the proper pronunciation. It is always appreciated if the instructor takes the time to learn the student's native name.

The Five (5) Components of NICE

*Communication * Funding * Inclusion * Expansion. These are elements that are necessary to move the program forward on a local and global scale. To obtain these elements, it is necessary to seek support while NICE is the foundation of support. With necessary funding and elevated communication to the community, colleagues, partners, and friends, NICE can stimulate greater sustainability and preparation for our students and educators. We are fortunate to have extraordinary levels of support from our parents and community through the NICE PCO (Parent-Community Organization) that is drawing upon their own professional experiences and career expertise to build a foundational framework of support for the students, educators, and families associated with NICE.*

CELEBRATIONS and SUCCESS:

“NICE is the only program that spans the entire district and the world at once.”

NICE is different from other organizations and programs in that it increases learning for all kinds of learners with all kinds of interests. The NICE program runs district-wide. Teachers from all grade levels are working together to make this initiative work, encouraging vertical alignment of curriculum and simultaneously referencing resources to maximize the learning experience. Students are also extending their own personal network by working and interacting with students in other schools in and beyond Newtown.

The achievements, camaraderie and collaboration continue far beyond the borders of Newtown: students, staff, and community members are creating a network of colleagues that cross time zones, oceans, and cultural barriers.

NICE is the only program that spans the entire district and the world at once. The global aspect of NICE is what makes it so vital to the success of Newtown as a whole. Students are enhancing holistic experiences, teachers are learning different perspectives and methods, and the community is joining together. Truly, everyone benefits from NICE.

However, families are not required to follow this recommended payment plan.

Beginning in 2012-2013, with the support of contributions, NICE will offer travel scholarships to students that cannot fully afford the opportunity. NICE would like to triple this amount in 2014. The program will continue their efforts to promote further funding from corporations, especially in the Newtown Community through the NICE Parents-Community Organization (NPCO).

State of Connecticut

By Her Excellency M. Jodi Rell, Governor:

An Official Statement

Whereas, the Connecticut General Assembly adopted legislation in the 2001 Session that stresses the importance of international education, and Section 10-27(a) of the Connecticut General Statutes reads, "It shall be the policy of the state to encourage its students, teachers, administrators and educational policy makers to participate in international studies, international exchange programs and other activities that advance cultural awareness and promote mutual understanding and respect for the citizens of other countries"; and

Whereas, international education and exchange include thousands of programs, public and private, campus-based and national, that promote the sharing of ideas and experiences across borders, including study-abroad programs, citizen and scholarly exchanges, foreign students on United States campuses, area and foreign language studies, and global approaches to United States education; and

Whereas, by participating in such programs our young people develop a greater appreciation and respect for other people and their cultures, and break down barriers to understanding and cooperation, which are vital to peace and prosperity; and

Whereas, we live in an increasingly interconnected world and improving global literacy among our citizens contributes significantly to our nation's foreign policy, economic competitiveness and national security; and

Whereas, it is important that citizens and institutions across this nation participate in celebrating this week and recognizing the importance of international education in our lives and communities; now

THEREFORE, I, M. Jodi Rell, Governor of the State of Connecticut, do hereby officially proclaim the week of November 16 - 20, as in the State of Connecticut.

INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK

Statement on International Education Week 2011
by U.S. Secretary of Education Arne Duncan
November 14-18, 2011

I am pleased to announce the 12th annual International Education Week starting on November 14. This year's theme is International Education: Inspiring Students Locally to Succeed Globally.

International Education Week is a joint initiative of the U.S. Departments of Education and State. It celebrates the benefits of understanding the world around us so we can better communicate and collaborate with others from different cultures. It is an ideal opportunity to inspire students to broaden their horizons through global learning, foreign languages and international exchange.

President Obama and I are passionate about providing all of our children with an education that will enable them to succeed in a globally competitive economy where knowledge and innovation are more important than ever. And, with the world's economies and societies becoming more and more interdependent, it is almost impossible to distinguish between domestic and international issues.

Therefore, we must work together to give all of our students an outstanding education, which includes learning about our global partners – their cultures, histories, languages, values, and viewpoints. We must focus on integrating international perspectives into our classrooms. It is through education and exchange that we become better collaborators, competitors and compassionate neighbors in this global society.

There is no longer any doubt that local actions have international effects and consequences. International Education Week 2011 is a time to celebrate our connection with the world around us. I hope that you will join me this November in highlighting the importance of international education and exchange.

Connecticut State Board of Education
Hartford

Position Statement on International Education and Exchange

Adopted March 4, 2009

The Connecticut State Board of Education regards high-quality international education as an essential component of a comprehensive prekindergarten through Grade 12 education. There is growing evidence, however, that without a renewed sense of urgency, Connecticut's students will be unprepared to take advantage of opportunities in the globalized 21st century.

The Board believes that Connecticut's public schools must provide opportunities for acquiring international skills and experiences that prepare students to participate in a connected and integrated world. State and local educational planning for the acquisition of new international knowledge and skills will position Connecticut's students to take advantage of new opportunities in today's international environment.

Several factors such as dynamic changes in world economies, concern for the global environment, expansion of international legal institutions and increased migration have combined to create significant multicultural and international challenges for education. Meeting these challenges requires new international knowledge and skills, including proficiency in a language other than English, literacy in global trade, an appreciation of diverse cultures and the ability to understand the cultural and national perspectives of others. International study and exchange for students and educators are effective methods to advance knowledge in these areas and to create new experiences and relationships. In addition, these measures can inspire future educational policies and best practices.

A quality international education program includes the following components: integrated international curriculum, world language learning, active international engagement, international partnerships, international professional development focus, technology linkages and communication, and measurement of student international learning.

Sections 10-27 and 10-27a of the Connecticut General Statutes, adopted by the General Assembly in 2001 and amended in 2004, speak to the importance of international study and exchange. The legislation includes the following components:

- forming a state advisory committee on international education;
- establishing official state policy encouraging international education;
- providing opportunities for Connecticut's schools to form partnerships with schools in other countries;
- sharing with and among schools, experiences and opportunities for international education;
- developing criteria for international programs in schools and development of international schools;
- creating guidelines and standards for international studies; and
- encouraging school staff and student exchanges.

This position statement embraces the belief of the State Board of Education and the intent of the General Assembly. It commits policymakers and educators to developing in students the skills commensurate with their responsibilities for global stewardship and international participation.

Guidelines for Policymakers

In its 2009 Position Statement on International Education and Exchange, the Connecticut State Board of Education calls for increased opportunities for students to obtain knowledge and develop skills required for competent participation in a rapidly expanding global society. This position statement acknowledges that some discrete skills, such as second language competence, are important and should be part of each student's experience. It also implies that international education will bring about new perspectives in students that inform how the general curriculum will serve them as it prepares them to think and plan for their futures.

Implementing this position statement and creating the opportunities envisioned in Sections 10-27 and 10-27a of the Connecticut General Statutes, requires a great deal of collaboration among the Connecticut State Department of Education, local boards of education and families. Having the knowledge, skills and behaviors associated with international education competence is critical for our students' futures, as well as for Connecticut's place in the globally competitive economy. International education should begin in the earliest grades and extend throughout a student's educational career.

The Board offers the following guidelines to support the establishment of collaborations among various stakeholders to create greater opportunities for international education to benefit students and teachers in preschool through high school. School districts are encouraged to tailor strategies across grade levels that are consistent with each student's personal development, maturation and grade-level expectations.

The Connecticut State Department of Education can contribute effectively to international education by:

- forming a statewide international education advisory committee to provide guidance to the Department and support to state and local initiatives;
- promulgating guidance and policies encouraging international education;
- planning opportunities and providing incentives for school districts or schools to form partnerships with schools in other countries;
- organizing opportunities for districts or schools with established programs to share implementation strategies, programs and benefits with others that want to create or expand opportunities in their schools;
- developing criteria or guidance for international education magnet or charter schools, or international education programs within comprehensive schools, including student clubs and organizations;
- creating curriculum and assessment guidelines and standards for in-school and approved out-of-school international studies programs and opportunities;
- including international content on appropriate state assessments across content areas;
- promoting opportunities and providing incentives for staff and student exchanges between schools in Connecticut and those in other countries;
- encouraging the expansion of prekindergarten-Grade 12 world language instruction; and
- reporting on language-learning opportunities at each level to foster accelerated participation and proficiency.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

- 1) NICE quarterly updates to the BOE
- 2) Inclusion of Student Ambassador/ Junior Student Ambassador for semester update to BOE
- 3) BOE and town leadership attendance to NICE community learning and cultural events
- 4) BOE and town leadership participation on study tours that would require participants to attend mandatory preparatory workshops
- 5) Aid the NICE Team in identifying non-budgetary resources of support that can contribute to funding for student and teacher scholarships as stated with intent in the October 2011 BOE meeting.
- 6) BOE to utilize the information provided to them on March 20, including the supplemental information provided, in order to assist in correctly informing the public about NICE and diminish misinformation. Aiding us in informing the misinformed will allow NICE and the educators to focus on what they have done best: developing real-world, relevant student learning experiences and moving the program forward at a national and international level, best representing our district and township.
